

Why Sonic Life Solutions Tuning Forks are the best quality in the world!

1.	Our tuning forks are made in the USA by one of two professional suppliers of aluminium alloy tuning forks known for their high-quality tuning forks.	May have little experience or expertise in providing a quality instrument to offer the maximum healing benefits.
2.	My supplier have been supplying high-quality tuning forks since 2000 and therefore are experts in their field.	May have only been supplying forks for a few years or so.
3.	Every fork is custom-made per customer.	May not offer quality products or good customer care.
4.	Highest quality materials are used with a special alloy material that is harder and therefore more durable and less likely to get nicked over time.	Cheap metal gives the forks a gritty surface so they are not smooth to touch and look less professional due to the lack of a smooth finish.
5.	Special employees with more training and experience make the forks to ensure they are expertly made and tuned to perfection.	Employees may not have the necessary expertise to supply you with the best professional practitioner quality forks.
6.	Temperature-control is vital to accuracy and procedures are honed to ensure all forks are optimally tuned. My supplier will only tune forks in the perfect conditions to ensure the best accuracy.	Temperature control may not be used due to cheap production methods, hence the forks may not be accurately tuned at all!
7.	Every fork is precision-tuned with state-of-the-art equipment to a thousandth Hz accuracy (0.0000Hz). I believe my forks are the most accurate available.	Tuning equipment may be old or poor quality so Hz accuracy is not guaranteed & I've found some companies unfortunately sell instruments out by as much as 6 Hz!
8.	Each fork is individually hand-tested and re-tested a second time to ensure frequency accuracy.	Hand testing and re-testing may not even be done so they aren't selling practitioner tools for healing!
9.	Sonic Life Solutions supply you with longer handles for ease of holding the tuning forks.	If fork handles are shorter this makes them harder to hold increasing hand fatigue doing multiple sessions!
10.	My forks have a longer sustained ring time than cheaper ones which really supports the client staying deeply relaxed, and also reduces hand fatigue as the forks don't need to be struck as many times during a session	Forks that don't sound for long have to be struck many more times which can bring a client out of a deeply relaxed state and increase your hand fatigue especially over time!

11.	All my weighted forks are available with a custom-designed protective coating on the weights to protect the shine & guaranteed for lifelong use!	Cheap forks that have no protective coating start to lose the metallic shine and long-term this can also affect the Hz accuracy
12.	My forks are designed for lifetime use so they are far more eco-friendly compared to other forks that may need to be replaced due to any of the challenging issues mentioned above.	If the forks are low quality they may need to be replaced due to nicks in the metal, inaccurate Hz tunings, not sounding for very long, shorter handles being uncomfortable to use, shine coming off etc.
13.	It is for all the reasons above, I only supply top quality practitioner forks to maximise the healing for you and your client for lifetime use!	Is it worth buying cheap, or is it worth choosing to fully invest in top quality healing instruments that take care of you as a practitioner & your clients and they last a lifetime??!!

I have been a practitioner of Sound Healing Therapy since 2001 and I use Tuning Forks in my practice. I only sell what I use in my practice or use personally, and I have a long history and understanding what the forks can do. I also teach how to use the Tuning Forks for healing. In addition, I have developed unique Tuning Forks Sets based on my study, research and experience. Read about my credentials here. Check out courses here, and get forks here.

Joyful Divine harmonious vibrations to you all!

Eeshi-Ra Hart
Sound Healing Practitioner/Speaker/Author

Founder

Sonic Life Solutions

EeshiraHart.net

Transformation through the power of sound